Dynamic healthcare leader and educator, bringing nearly twenty years of experience advancing patient care, nursing operations, and trauma program management. With a robust clinical background in critical care, emergency department (ED), and trauma nursing leadership. As the former Vice President of Patient Care Services at an Academic Level 1 Trauma Center and current full-time instructor at Creighton University College of Nursing, I bring practical leadership and clinical expertise to nursing education. I hold a Master's degree in Nursing with a concentration in Healthcare Administration, have been recognized as a "40 Under 40" emerging nurse leader, and have served on several boards focused on nursing and healthcare leadership. Adept at interpreting medical records, identifying standards of care, and delivering thorough, evidence-based opinions.
